Weather Conditions

The vintage started favorably with early budding. Flowering took place during a dry and sunny June. Summer was more chaotic, cool and stormy. The vine was late and the veraison extended over a long period. From the end of August, a particularly warm weather takes place. The true indian summer. The temperatures' amplitudes were important and very nice for the ripeness of seeds and skins. It also kept the fruity aromas. The weather was dry and allow us to harvest grapes with a very nice concentration.

Tasting

The colour is purple. The first nose is pure and aerial with hints of cherry, strawberry, violet and thyme. After aeration, the minerality comes up and shows a silky wine. Very creamy from the start, it develops in the mouth on fine tannins and well sewed associated with a nice acidity. The finish is long and vivid. Just like the nose, the general sensation of freshness leaves an impression of lively and harmonious wine.
